REMEMBER??

Lexington Unit 7 School District Photo
Fall 1956

These sure were the good old days!

This photo of the Lexington School Complex shows the two schools the community built within two years - quite an accomplishment for any school district! Just after the 1914 High School opened, the old grade school burned and a new building was hurriedly erected on the same spot the next year. Later the middle section was added between the two older school buildings. A photo of the entire complex was hard to find and this one appeared in the Pantagraph in 1956. Maybe you can recognize someone hangin' out in front of the Lindsay Store? Can you almost smell that FLAVOR-CRISP chicken from Oasis Drive-In? Yum!

It's our job to remind you to remember!
